

“All Scripture is God-breathed and is useful for teaching, rebuking, correcting and training in righteousness, so that the servant of God may be thoroughly equipped for every good work.”
— 2 Timothy 3:16-17

Script Writer Role Guide

Purpose

The Script Writer shapes the story that becomes the heartbeat of each production. Their words guide movement, music, and message — weaving biblical truth into dramatic or musical form that the congregation can understand, feel, and remember.

Core Responsibilities

- Biblical Integrity - Ensure all dialogue, narration, and themes are faithful to Scripture.
- Creative Expression - Develop engaging narratives that communicate eternal truths clearly and emotionally.
- Collaboration - Work with the Director, Producer, and Pastoral Team to confirm alignment with theological and practical goals.
- Formatting - Write in clear stage format (character, cue, note) for ease of rehearsal and technical planning.
- Revision - Accept feedback with humility and adjust to fit timing, audience, and production capacity.
- Archiving - Maintain digital copies for reuse and reference in future productions.

Best Practices

- Begin every writing session with prayer for clarity and humility.
- Keep Scripture at the center — every line should point to Christ, not character.
- Use plain, relatable language that connects with a multi-generational audience.
- Include stage and lighting notes only where necessary.
- Respect production limitations — write within available cast, space, and time.
- Review the final draft with pastoral leadership before distribution.

Writing Workflow

Stage	Focus	Collaborators
Concept	Theme, Scripture basis, tone	Pastor, Director

Stage	Focus	Collaborators
Outline	Scene flow, emotional arc	Director, Producer
Draft	Dialogue, cues, formatting	Writer
Review	Theology and flow check	Pastor, Director
Final	Distribution and read-through	Cast, Tech

Ministry Focus

Every script should move hearts toward Christ. A well-written scene is not about applause — it's about revelation. The Script Writer's words become instruments of grace that outlive the performance itself.
